1. At the end of May 1952, five or six reserve officers residing in Krumovgrad were ordered to report for training. The officers belonged to the 1915-1925 infantry and artillery branches. Reservists from border areas were not being called for additional training; it was rumored that reservists from border areas were not trusted by the regime.¹
2. Bricks, lime, and other construction materials were being taken to Botruche (RG-4209) for the construction of an Army building. It is rumored that the Border Guard unit which is now at Gugutka (N4124 E2557) will be moved to Botruche.²
